Nature of complaint

Explain in detail why you believe the respondent has violated the campaign finance and public disclosure laws. Attach an extra sheet of paper if necessary. Attach any documents, materials, minutes, resolutions, or other evidence to support your allegations.

See accompanying memorandum.

Minnesota Statutes section 10A.022, subdivision 3, describes the procedures required for investigating complaints. A full description of the complaint process is available on the Board's website.

Briefly, the Board will notify you when it has received your complaint. The Board must send a copy of the complaint to the respondent. Complaints and investigations are confidential. Board members and staff cannot talk about an investigation except as required to carry out the investigation or to take action in the matter. After the Board issues a decision, the record of the investigation is public.

The law requires a complaint to go through two stages before the Board can begin an investigation: a prima facie determination and a probable cause decision. If the complaint does not pass one of the stages, it must be dismissed.

The Board has 10 business days after receiving your complaint to determine whether the complaint is sufficient to allege a prima facie violation of the campaign finance laws. If the Board determines that the complaint does allege a prima facie violation, the Board has 45 days to decide whether probable cause exists to believe a violation that warrants a formal investigation has occurred. Both you and the respondent have the right to be heard on the issue of probable cause before the Board makes this decision. The Board will notify you if the complaint moves to the probable cause stage.

If the Board determines that probable cause does not exist, the Board will dismiss the complaint. If the Board determines that probable cause exists, the Board will start an investigation. The Board will send you monthly updates regarding the status of the investigation. At the end of the investigation, the Board will offer you and the respondent the opportunity to be heard before the Board makes a final decision.

In most cases, the Board will issue findings, conclusions, and an order as its decision. For a spending or contribution limits violation, the Board can enter into a conciliation agreement with the respondent instead of issuing findings, conclusions, and an order. The Board's final decision will be sent to you and posted on the Board's website.

Memorandum in support of complaint against Neel Kashkari

by Steven J. Timmer

January 9, 2023

Federal Reserve Bank photograph

This memorandum is offered in support of a complaint to the Campaign Finance and Public Disclosure Board against Neel Kashkari for failure to register as a lobbyist with the Board and failure to file periodic reports of his lobbying activity and expenses, as required by Minn. Stat. §§ 10A.03 and .04 (2022), and Board rules thereunder.

As will be described in this memorandum, since moving to Minnesota in 2016 and assuming his position with the Federal Reserve Bank, Mr. Kashkari has made a concerted attempt to influence state law related to public education in Minnesota, particularly after the announcement of the so-called “Page Amendment,” an effort to amend the Minnesota Constitution.

Neel Kashkari is the president of the Ninth Federal Reserve District headquartered in Minneapolis. Mr. Kashkari is a resident of the State of Minnesota. The address of the Federal Reserve Bank is 90 Hennepin Avenue, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55401; Mr. Kashkari’s residence address is unknown to your complainant.

A threshold question

Since he is a high-ranking federal employee, a threshold question is whether Mr. Kashkari is exempt from public disclosure law relating to lobbying activity; the short answer is “no.”

As with any other resident of the state, Mr. Kashkari is expected to obey the laws of the state and its political subdivisions. He’s expected to keep his lawn mowed, obey traffic laws, keep his car insured, pay his taxes, and so forth. He must also observe public disclosure law related to his lobbying activity.

The place to start analyzing whether Mr. Kashkari is a lobbyist or not is Minn. Stat. § 10A.01 (2022). Subd. 21 defines what a lobbyist is, and it also provides multiple exceptions to the definition, none of which is applicable here.

Subd. 21(b) provides a list of persons who are exempt from being considered a lobbyist under subsection (a) of that subdivision. The first one, in subsection (b)(1), is “public official.” But Mr. Kashkari is not a “public official” for this purpose; “public official” is defined in Subd. 35 of § 10A.01. It provides thirty categories of public officials who are exempt from consideration as a lobbyist. Significantly, each of these thirty categories covers only employees or agents of the State of Minnesota. There is no exemption for any federal public official, including a president of a federal reserve bank.

Subsection (b)(4) of Subd. 21 exempts “a nonelected local official or an employee of a political subdivision acting in an official capacity.” “Local officials” are defined in Subd. 22 as persons elected, appointed, or employed by a “political subdivision, which in turn is defined in Subd. 31 as municipalities and units of metropolitan government created by the state. Again, only agents or employees of state instrumentalities are entitled to claim the exemption.

No other exemption under Subd. 21(b) is even remotely applicable.

Mr. Kashkari is not entitled to exemption from registration as a lobbyist or filing reports because of the federal office he holds.¹ Nor should he be. As the president of a federal reserve bank, he has access to and directs far more resources — personnel and financial, as we'll see — than the average citizen. Those average citizens deserve to know about Mr. Kashkari's activities in influencing policy on the largest line item of spending in the state's budget.

It is not just policy that he seeks to influence; it's the state's creation document he seeks to amend: the Minnesota Constitution, specifically the Education Clause,² Article XIII, Section 1, which has been part of the Constitution since Minnesota became a state.

What is a lobbyist and what is required of them?

Minn. Stat. § 10A.01 Subd. 21(a)(2) (2022) provides that a lobbyist is someone:

who spends more than $250, not including the individual's own traveling expenses and membership dues, in any year for the purpose of attempting to influence legislative or administrative action, or the official action of a metropolitan governmental unit, by communicating or urging others to communicate [emphasis added] with public or local officials.

A person is engaged in lobbying not only when they are communicating with legislators directly, but when they try to persuade others to make attempts to persuade legislators to take action, as well. As the President of the Federal Reserve Bank, Mr. Kashkari spent the Bank's resources and personnel freely, resulting in the expenditure of tens of thousands of dollars a year, or more, lobbying for the Page Amendment, since at least 2019.³

² UNIFORM SYSTEM OF PUBLIC SCHOOLS. The stability of a republican form of government depending mainly upon the intelligence of the people, it is the duty of the legislature to establish a general and uniform system of public schools. The legislature shall make such provisions by taxation or otherwise as will secure a thorough and efficient system of public schools throughout the state.

A lobbyist must register with the CFPDB. Minn. Stat. § 10A.03 (2022). A lobbyist must also file semiannual reports with CFPDB. Minn. Stat. § 10A.04 (2022).⁴ At this point, a discussion of the Board's rules about the contents of reports is irrelevant, because Mr. Kashkari has never filed one.

The facts of Neel Kashkari's lobbying and his failure to register as a lobbyist and file required lobbying reports with the CFPDB

According to the Board's database, Neel Kashkari has never registered as a lobbyist, although he has engaged in heavy anti-public school and pro-Page Amendment lobbying activity almost from the moment he moved to Minnesota to assume the presidency of the Ninth Federal Reserve.

Prior to accepting the post in Minnesota, Mr. Kashkari ran unsuccessfully for governor of California. Described by media there as "the asset manager from Laguna Beach,"⁵ an important part of his platform was criticism of public schools and the support of private and charter schools, an activity he has certainly continued since moving here.

³ Mr. Kashkari, or his counsel, may say, "Well, it was the Federal Reserve's money, not Neel Kashkari's." Minn. Stat. § 10A.01 Subd. 21(a)(2) (2022) doesn't say "spends his own money." Putting such a requirement into the statute would read words into it that aren't there. Mr. Kashkari obviously directed the staff of the Federal Reserve Bank and its expenditures on behalf of the Page Amendment. Staff usually attended meetings with Mr. Kashkari (and Mr. Page) and legislators, other policy makers, and the public, and they wrote numerous articles in support of the Page Amendment specifically, as well as creating and maintaining the portion of the website of the Bank dedicated to advocacy on behalf of the Page Amendment initiative.

It is more egregious, really, than if Mr. Kashkari had just spent his own money – because he would have had so much less to spend. The Federal Reserve Bank is a powerful federal institution – with about 1,000 employees in Minneapolis alone – that Mr. Kashkari directed and brought to bear. This situation is unprecedented; a blinkered view of Subd. 21 (a)(2) just invites mischief of the kind present here.

⁴ This memorandum does not address whether the Federal Reserve Bank has reporting obligations as a principal under Subd. 6 of § 10A.04; perhaps it does.

The “Page Amendment” is an initiative to amend the Minnesota Constitution to remove the duty of the state to fund public systems of education.⁶ It was offered by its supporters shortly after the Minnesota Supreme Court’s decision in Cruz-Guzman v. Minnesota, 916 N.W.2d 1 (2018) which held that public school systems that included segregated charter schools were a violation of the existing Education Clause; it sent the case back to the lower courts for resolution consistent with the Supreme Court’s opinion, an outcome that has so far eluded the parties and the courts. The case is headed back to the Supreme Court.⁷

Neel Kashkari was a proponent of the Page Amendment from its inception, meeting with its organizers shortly after its announcement. For it to become effective, a bill proposing the amendment must pass both houses of the Legislature — it does not require the governor’s signature — and it must pass a voter referendum. Mr. Kashkari has worked tirelessly to persuade legislators to pass Page Amendment bills, and he has worked to persuade others to try to persuade legislators as well. The proof of that is contained in Mr. Kashkari’s public diary, which is published on the Federal Reserve website.⁸ The website of the Minneapolis Fed has also published many articles dedicated to the advocacy for the Page Amendment, just for example, this one from February 2021, arguing that the passage of the amendment won’t increase education litigation⁹ – which is a laughable proposition, but that’s for another day. Many members of the Bank’s staff have contributed advocacy articles for the Page Amendment.

In January of 2022, the conservative organization The Center of the American Experiment sent a letter to Fed Chairman Jerome Powell, complaining about Mr. Kashkari's lobbying activity.¹⁰

Criticism has been leveled at Mr. Kashkari by academics, and some federal officials, including former a fed president and a U.S. senator, but it has not prompted his registration as a lobbyist.¹¹

Public interest media have attempted to obtain information from Mr. Kashkari and the Bank about activity advocating for the Page Amendment and the provenance of the amendment itself, but they've been rebuffed. See Exhibit A, a letter from counsel for the Federal Reserve Bank to Mike Kaszuba of Public Record Media, dated March 9, 2021.

Bank counsel observes in the letter that the Bank is not subject to either the Freedom of Information Act or state data practices laws. The letter was referred to in an article in Public Record Media.¹²

The announcement of the Page Amendment initiative and collaborating with Alan Page and Mike McFadden, principal proponents of it, caused a sharp uptick (an understatement) in Mr. Kashkari's activity in "educational policy" and for the adoption of the Page Amendment by the Legislature, starting in the fall of 2019, leading up to the introduction of the amendment for the first time in the 2020 legislative session.

This graph shows Mr. Kashkari's involvement of Federal Reserve Bank staff in meetings or telephone contact where he advocated for the Page Amendment, often with Mr. Page in attendance, too. This information is taken from the public diary of Mr. Kashkari, published by the Bank.

Minneapolis Fed President Neel Kashkari's Educational Policy Meetings and Calls March 2019 to May 2022

Source: Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis, President's Schedule, 2016 - 2022.
<https://www.minneapolisfed.org/about-us/leadership/presidents-schedule>

Who was Mr. Kashkari meeting with? Mr. Page, often, of course, and with elected officials, education leaders, members of the governor's staff and cabinet, business leaders, and virtually anybody else who could help persuade the Legislature to pass the Page Amendment bills. Attached to this memorandum are three exhibits, prepared by an associate of your complainant, abstracting from his published diary Mr. Kashkari's meetings and telephone calls on "education policy" from the about the time of his appointment as President of the Ninth District to about the middle of 2022.¹³ (The pagination on some of the pages of the exhibits cuts items in two, which I can't fix, but everything in the exhibits was taken from President Kashkari's public diary.) A spreadsheet of Kashkari meetings and contacts, including Mr. Page and Bank staff, is attached as Exhibit E. (You may have to magnify it in your pdf viewer to read it.) Mr. Kashkari made liberal use of his staff during this time.

There are scores and scores of meetings. By way of just one example, on January 20, 2020, Mr. Kashkari met with Alan Page and two employees of the Federal Reserve Bank and the entire DFL People of Color Caucus in the Capitol complex. He met with other legislators that day, too. He also had individual meetings or calls with members of the POC Caucus, in some cases multiple times, especially during legislative sessions.¹⁴

Here's just a sample of the people that Mr. Kashkari (and usually Alan Page and one or more staff members of the Bank) met with about "education policy" and the Page Amendment (many of them multiple times): former governor Mark Dayton, Shannon Patrick, policy advisor to Governor Dayton, Congressman Dean Phillips, Brenda Cassellius, former Commissioner of Education, Charlie Weaver, Minnesota Business Partnership, Sondra Samuels, Northside Achievement Zone, Eli Kramer, Hiawatha Academies, Jennifer Stern and Ben Whitney, Great Minnesota Schools, Laura Bloomquist, Dean of the Humphrey Institute, Ted Kolderie, Education Evolving, Steve Belton, Urban League, R.T. Rybak and Chandra Smith, Minneapolis Foundation, Mike Ciresi, Roberta Walburn, Campbell Brown, former journalist, Ed Graff, Superintendent of Minneapolis Schools, legislators Tom Bakk, Melissa Hortman and Kurt Daudt, ¹³ The exhibits are: Exhibit B (meetings from 2016 through the end of 2019), Exhibit C (meetings in January 2020), and Exhibit D (meetings from February 2020 through February 2022).

Todd Rapp, Rapp Strategies, Mike McFadden, Attorney General Keith Ellison, Alec Sloan, Assistant Attorney General, Native American Finance Officers Association, State Senator Bobby Joe Champion, Lt. Governor Peggy Flanagan, former governor Tim Pawlenty, Steve Grove, Commissioner of Labor and Economic Development, Senator Jeff Hayden, Jeff Harmening, CEO of General Mills, Doug Loon, president of the Minnesota Chamber of Commerce, the chairs of Securian and EcoLab, legislators Carla Nelson, Greg Marcus, Rena Moran, Kristen Robbins, Julie Rosen, Paul Gazelka, Jay Xiong, Jim Davine, Dave Pinto, Carlos Mariani, Joan Gabel, president of the University of Minnesota, Laurie Nordquist, Wells Fargo CEO, St. Paul mayor Melvin Carter, and Lee McGrath, Institute for Justice.

It seems obvious that Mr. Kashkari wasn't discussing the finer points of pedagogy with this list.

This list just takes us through Exhibit B and the end of 2019, leading up to the introduction of the Page Amendment for the first time in 2020. Please refer to the exhibits for a complete recitation of the meetings, especially with legislators.

Merely arranging these meeting must have consumed a lot of administrative staff time.

Discussion

One of the points made in the letter by the CAE's Peter Nelson to Federal Reserve Bank Chair Jerome Powell (linked above) is that lobbying by Mr. Kashkari and the Minneapolis Federal Reserve Bank raises serious separation of powers issues; Mr. Nelson is correct.

Education policy and the contents of the Minnesota Constitution are the province of the Legislature and the people of Minnesota and must not be overborne by the pressure and resources of an instrumentality of the federal government: a Federal Reserve Bank and its president.

Mr. Kashkari has human and financial resources at his disposal that cannot be matched by any Minnesota legislative or educational nonprofit, school boards, or association of school administrators, teachers, or parents.

The fact that the Bank refuses to voluntarily disclose its expenditures related to lobbying for the Page Amendment makes lobbying registration and disclosure to the CFPDB even more important. Without it, the public is in the dark about the resources that have been poured into the Page Amendment by Mr. Kashkari and the Bank.

As observed earlier, the lobbying efforts are directed toward not merely a statute, but the Education Clause of the Constitution, which our Supreme Court has held imposes an affirmative duty on the Legislature to create and maintain a system of general education. That would no longer be the case if the Page Amendment became part of the Constitution. I have written about that in the Minnesota Reformer article linked above, and on my website, discussing Skeen v.

Minnesota.¹⁵

Proponents of the Page Amendment, and certainly including Mr. Kashkari, have lobbied for the passage of the constitutional amendment the last three sessions, and they give every indication of doing so again this session. But no lobbying reports were made by Mr. Kashkari in 2022, 2021, 2020, 2019, or any other year, explaining the Fed's money he has spent. He's never registered as a lobbyist, which he clearly is.

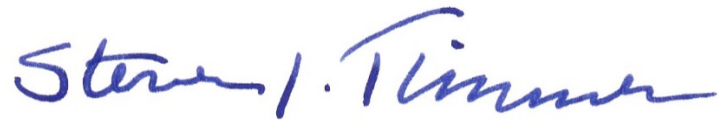

It is more than merely probable that Mr. Kashkari has engaged in lobbying, and it is also more than merely probable that he has spent more than $250 doing it each year. If we are to believe the information in the Federal Reserve Bank's own website, and Mr. Kashkari's published diary, these things are certain. An investigation by the Board and its staff will just confirm them.

The case is proved out of Mr. Kashkari's own mouth.

If we can't restrain a senior federal public official and bank president, and a federal bank, from meddling with the Minnesota Constitution, at least we can make them be more transparent about it.

RE: Request for information from the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis

Dear Mr. Kaszuba:

This is in response to your February 21, 2021 e-mail to Alyssa Augustine requesting information about, among other things, Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis (“FRB Mpls”) President Neel Kashkari’s work with regard to the “Page Amendment” and certain matters related to the advisory board of FRB Mpls’s Opportunity and Inclusive Growth Institute (the “OIGI”).

As an initial matter, we note that FRB Mpls is not subject to public records disclosure laws. For example, the federal Freedom of Information Act (“FOIA”) requires that agencies of the federal government make their records available to the public unless the records are specifically exempted. FRB Mpls is not an “agency” as that term is defined in FOIA, and consequently is not subject to its provisions. Similarly, FRB Mpls is not subject to state laws such as the Minnesota Data Practices Act. Notwithstanding, FRB Mpls considers requests for information, and responds within the parameters of its established policies and other relevant authorities.

After careful consideration of your request, FRB Mpls’s response is as follows.

Request: A list of non-Federal Reserve individuals or entities that were consulted during the development of the proposed amendment.

There is a very wide range of individuals that were consulted as part of the development of the proposed amendment. Neel Kashkari maintains a calendar of all of his public interactions, which can be found at <https://www.minneapolisfed.org/about-us/leadership/presidents-schedule>. These interactions reflect that concerns about Minnesota’s severe educational disparities were discussed as early as the first quarter of 2017 and continue to this day. This work follows FRB Mpls’s decades-long interests to advance investment in early childhood development. President Kashkari’s calendar is not reflective of work and consultation done by other Bank researchers and leaders.

A broad and diverse cross section of civic, community, business, education, and elected leaders have registered their support for the constitutional amendment proposal. Just a few are noted here: <https://www.minneapolisfed.org/policy/education-achievement-gaps/statewide-support>.

Request: Copies of any background memoranda or legal analysis produced during this process.

Research and analysis regarding the Page Amendment have been communicated through various conferences, events, and publications. See generally <https://www.minneapolisfed.org/policy/education-achievement-gaps> .

Requests related to the OIGI Advisory Board and Professor Myron Orfield.

Information regarding the OIGI Advisory Board may be found at <https://www.minneapolisfed.org/institute/about/advisory-board>.

After careful consideration of this matter, we have determined that it would be inappropriate for FRB Mpls to disclose information about specific contracts or communications between FRB Mpls and individual members of the OIGI Advisory Board, in light of, among other things, the legitimate expectations that these Board members have that such materials wouldn't be disclosed without their consent or a compelling business need. Although we cannot provide the information requested above, we note in response to your request, that certain correspondence between President Kashkari and Professor Orfield is publicly available, and can be found at UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA \(state.mn.us\).

We can also provide the following general information regarding the OIGI Advisory Board. When the Advisory Board was initially formed in 2017, all members agreed to serve a one-year term. Subsequently, it was determined that staggered term lengths were desirable, to avoid all board terms expiring on the same date. As a result, in 2019, board members signed agreements to serve varying length terms, ranging from one year to three years, depending on the board member's preference and other factors. It is anticipated that this methodology will continue into the future, with some board members rotating off the board at the end of their service period.

Thank you for your interest in the Federal Reserve.

Sincerely,

John E. Yanish

In November 2013, Chris Bischof and the Eastside College Preparatory School were featured with Kashkari in a November 14, 2013 SFGATE article (with 24 photos) that followed Kashkari as he pondered a 2014 run for California governor. "The 40-year old former assistant Treasury secretary, dubbed "the $700 billion man" when he ran the Troubled Assets Relief Program bailing out banks after the 2008 economic crash, hasn't declared that he's running next year against Gov. Jerry Brown in what would be his first political campaign.

But Kashkari - who is pro-choice, favors same-sex marriage rights and voted for Barack Obama in 2008 - is talking like a candidate on a mission to rebrand a California Republican Party that is tired of losing.

"My focus is different from most candidates that we've seen, not just in California but around the country," Kashkari said in his first major interview. "If we were to do this, we would run a campaign that is truly reaching out to people that Republicans don't normally talk to."

October 11, 2019, Minneapolis Federal Reserve report on the education gap

A Statewide Crisis:

Minnesota's Education Achievement Gaps

Rob Grunewald, Economist

Anusha Nath, Research Economist

OCTOBER 11, 2019

"Despite Minnesota's failure to close its achievement gaps, there is hope. The report highlights other places in the nation that have improved outcomes for children of color and low-income students. These examples indicate that closing achievement gaps is challenging, but possible.

Common themes across these success stories include:

Giving schools greater autonomy to lead by implementing locally relevant programs and attracting, developing, and retaining high-quality teachers.

Focusing on school quality, such as using data and teacher coaching to improve instruction.

Supporting students and families through individualized services."

SUNDAY October 13, 2019. Neel Kashkari and Alan Page oped "Educational disparities still plague Minnesota students" appears in Minneapolis Star Tribune

No mention is made of the Page Amendment, or Minnesota state constitutional change.

"High performing schools across the nation that primarily serve low-income students tend to have a number of features in common: They start teaching children at an early age and focus on maximizing student learning time. They work to attract, develop and retain high-quality teachers. They use data and coaching to improve instruction. And policymakers give schools greater autonomy and remain focused on actual student achievement. We are not suggesting that Minnesota simply import a model from somewhere else, but these examples are proof that success is possible."
